Parenting Connection
Supporting WA parents

Free 6-hour workshop covering advanced tools for navigating tough topics and deepening connection with young people.

In this workshop, we'll explore:

- The Better Conversations Framework - Three core neurological needs for connection—and four simple steps to guide meaningful conversations with young people.
- Navigating Tough Topics - How our own experiences shape our reactions—and how to stay calm and connected when conversations get tricky.
- Robust Empathy - Tools for listening beyond the words to spot what a young person is really trying to say.
- Supportive Accountability - How to guide conversations toward real change—without lecturing or losing your cool.

COMMUNITY REMINDER

Maintaining Smoke Alarms

Once a month

Press the test button on your smoke alarm for up to 10 seconds until you hear the alarm sound. If the alarm does not sound, try putting in a different battery or replace the smoke alarm.

Every year

Clean your smoke alarms

Use a vacuum cleaner with a soft brush to gently clean dust and dirt from your smoke alarm.

Cleaning your smoke alarm helps stop false alarms and makes sure smoke can reach the sensor.

Replace the battery every year, if needed

All smoke alarms have batteries, even smoke alarms connected to mains power.

Replace the battery in smoke alarms that use a 9-volt alkaline battery. Smoke alarms with a non-removable lithium battery will have a warning label saying not to replace the battery.

If you're unsure about the battery type, ask the smoke alarm manufacturer.

Every 10 years

Replace all smoke alarms every 10 years

Smoke alarms do not last forever. Their sensitivity decreases over time, making them unreliable. Replace them every 10 years.

Test your alarms once a month. Clean your smoke alarms every year. Replace the battery every year, if needed. Replace all smoke alarms every 10 years.

Maintaining Smoke Alarms

DFES / 1

How do I change a battery?

1. Identify what type of alarm you have

All smoke alarms come with batteries. Even those connected to the mains power have a back-up battery for power outages.

The battery could be a non-removable lithium battery that lasts the entire 10-year life of the alarm. This means you don't need to replace the battery every year.

Alternatively, the battery could be a replaceable 9-volt alkaline battery.

Smoke alarms with a 10-year non-removable lithium battery will have a warning label stating the battery is not to be replaced.

2. Turn off the mains power (for mains-powered alarms)

Turn off the mains power at your meter box (fuse box) before changing the battery in a mains-powered alarm. The green light on the alarm will go out and the red light will flash.

3. Remove the smoke alarm from its base

Smoke alarms are attached to the ceiling with a base. To remove the alarm, you might need to press a button, twist and pull, or slide it off. Check the manufacturer's instructions for your model.

4. Replace the old battery

If you can take out the batteries, change them once a year.

5. Turn on the mains power (for mains-powered alarms)

Turn on the mains power at your meter box (fuse box). The green light on the alarm will come back on.

6. Test the smoke alarm

Test the smoke alarm again, by pressing the test button until you hear the alarm sound. If you do not hear the alarm sound, try putting in a different battery or replace the smoke alarm.

Mains-powered smoke alarm 10-year lithium battery alarm 9-volt alkaline battery smoke alarm

Maintaining Smoke Alarms

DFES / 2

What do I do if my smoke alarm is beeping?

If your smoke alarm beeps, it needs maintenance or replacement. Don't ignore it.

Contaminated detection chamber

Dust and cobwebs can make smoke alarms beep by blocking sensors or affecting the battery connections.

Use a vacuum cleaner with a soft brush to gently clean dust and dirt from your smoke alarm.

Low power

10-year lithium battery models

If the alarm beeps about once per minute and the red light flashes, the lithium battery is low, and you need to replace the smoke alarm.

9-volt alkaline battery models

When the battery is low, the smoke alarm beeps and red light flashes about once every 30 to 60 seconds. Replace the battery and then press the test button to ensure the smoke alarm is functioning properly.

Replace the battery once a year for best results.

Mains-powered smoke alarms with a 10-year lithium rechargeable back-up battery

If the alarm beeps and red light flashes every 30 to 60 seconds, the battery back-up is low.

First, check and reset the circuit breaker in your home. Then check the indicators again. If you're unsure, contact a licensed electrician.

The alarm may beep after a power outage if the battery is low. Once power is restored, the beeping should stop within 2 hours as the battery recharges. If the beeping continues after 2 hours with the green light on, contact the smoke alarm manufacturer for assistance.

Mains-powered smoke alarms with a 9-volt alkaline battery back up

Replace the backup battery when the smoke alarm beeps and red light flashes about once every 30 to 60 seconds. Check the manufacturer's instructions for the right battery type. Use high-quality, long-lasting batteries.

When to replace smoke alarms

If your smoke alarm continues to beep after cleaning and replacing the battery, it's likely faulty or too old and needs to be replaced.

All smoke alarms and heat alarms must be replaced every 10 years.

Install smoke alarms in every sleeping area, living room, hallway, stairway, and garage.

Replace smoke alarms every 10 years.

Always use a licensed electrician when installing mains-powered smoke alarms.

Interconnect your smoke alarms, so when one alarm detects a fire, all alarms sound.

Maintaining Smoke Alarms

DFES / 3

Installing Smoke Alarms

Only well-placed, working smoke alarms save lives.

Where do I install smoke alarms?

Smoke alarms should be placed on the ceiling in hallways next to sleeping areas. If there's no hallway, put smoke alarms on the ceiling near the sleeping areas. Also put them in every bedroom, living room, hallway, stairway, and garage.

In a multi-level home, install a smoke alarm on every level even if they are for parking, bathrooms, or laundry rooms.

Interconnect your smoke alarms so when one alarm detects a fire, all alarms will sound, alerting you earlier to the danger.
